I. About the Department

The Department of Germanic and Romance Studies has its origins in the Department of Modern European Languages which was established in 1948. The Department came into existence in 1988 when the original department was divided into two separate departments. Since the introduction of M.A. programmes in 1988 in French, German and Hispanic Studies, the focus in teaching and research is on cultural studies with an emphasis on an interdisciplinary perspective and a broader European dimension. This focus has been enhanced through the restructuring of the M.A. programmes and the introduction of an MA in Italian Studies in 1995, the restructuring of the M.Phil programmes in 1998 and the introduction of B.A. (Hons) programmes (in French, German, Italian and Spanish) in 2002.

The focus on cultural studies with an interdisciplinary perspective is reflected for example in a theme course for M.A. and M.Phil students focusing each year on a different theme. Themes chosen so far include India and Europe, Myth and Mythology, Literature and Exile, Romanticism and Modernity, Fin-de-Siècle, Literature and Anthropology, Culture and Globalisation, Literature and Industry, Literature and War, Autobiography, Literature and Travel, Diversity and Unity in Multicultural Societies, Empire and Rebellion, Popular Fiction, . The course includes a joint student seminar and an interdisciplinary international conference (held every year since 1996).

MA French Studies

German Studies

Hispanic Studies

Italian Studies

All four M.A. Programmes have been designed with a common structure and an interdisciplinary approach. The structure and approach are based on the following understanding:

- that since all the programmes involve the study of culture in general and literature in particular, they have certain common theoretical and methodological concern;
- that all the cultures and literatures to be studied have a certain, though not exclusive, focus on Europe and hence acquired their profiles through historical developments both in and sparked off from Europe;
- that an interdisciplinary approach is important to establish the links which exist between the study of literature and other fields in the humanities and social sciences such as history, linguistics and philosophy;
- that such an approach would stimulate thinking rather than a mere accumulation of knowledge in a particular field;
- that it would encourage the interaction between the study of foreign languages, literatures, cultures and the world in which this study is taking place;
- that it would lay the foundations for undertaking independent research work.

II. Introduction to CBCS (Choice Based Credit System)

Choice Based Credit System:

The CBCS provides an opportunity for the students to choose courses from the prescribed courses comprising core, elective/minor or skill-based courses. The courses can be evaluated following the grading system, which is considered to be better than the conventional marks system. Grading system provides uniformity in the evaluation and computation of the Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) based on student's performance in examinations enables the student to move across institutions of higher learning. The uniformity in evaluation system also enable the potential employers in assessing the performance of the candidates.

Definitions:

- (i) 'Academic Programme' means an entire course of study comprising its programme structure, course details, evaluation schemes etc. designed to be taught and evaluated in a teaching Department/Centre or jointly under more than one such Department/ Centre
- (ii) 'Course' means a segment of a subject that is part of an Academic Programme
- (iii) 'Programme Structure' means a list of courses (Core, Elective, Open Elective) that makes up an Academic Programme, specifying the syllabus, Credits, hours of teaching, evaluation and examination schemes, minimum number of credits required for successful completion of the programme etc. prepared in conformity to University Rules, eligibility criteria for admission
- (iv) 'Core Course' means a course that a student admitted to a particular programme must successfully complete to receive the degree and which cannot be substituted by any other course
- (v) 'Elective Course' means an optional course to be selected by a student out of such courses offered in the same or any other Department/Centre.
- (vi) 'Open Elective' means an elective course which is available for students of all programmes, including students of the same department. Students of other Departments may opt for these courses subject to fulfilling of eligibility of criteria as laid down by the Department offering the course.
- (vii) 'Credit' means the value assigned to a course which indicates the level of instruction; One-hour lecture per week equals 1 Credit, 2 hours practical class per week equals 1 credit. Credit for a practical could be proposed as part of a course or as a separate practical course
- (viii) 'CGPA' is the cumulative grade points calculated for all courses completed by the students at any point of time.

III. MA Italian Studies Programme Details:

Programme Objectives (POs):

The MA Italian Studies Programme is a two year programme that is interdisciplinary in nature and involves the study of culture in general and of the literature of France and Francophone countries. The programme brings together courses from a range of disciplines like history, literary and cultural studies, translation studies and didactics. It prepares students for academic careers in Italian as well as for a wide range of other careers in the field of translation, tourism, among other things. The compulsory dissertation at the end of the programme trains students in academic writing and lays the foundation for independent research work making them eligible for pursuing research programmes.

Programme Structure:

The MA Italian Studies programme is a two-year course divided into four-semester. A student is required to complete 79 credits for the completion of course and the award of degree.

Selection of Elective Courses:

The list of Elective Courses would be announced at the beginning of each semester. Students are to make choices in Semesters II, III and IV.

Teaching

The faculty of the Department is primarily responsible for organizing lecture work for the M.A. in Italian Studies Programme. The instructions related to tutorials will be provided by the Department. There shall be 90 instructional days excluding examination in a semester.

All students are expected to write a Dissertation in Semester IV. Students are expected to decide their area of research in Semester III after which the Supervisor will be assigned to them. The role of the Supervisor will be to guide the student through Semester IV in formulating the research question/ hypothesis and in completing the Dissertation in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Department. All students are to make a presentation in a students' seminar before the submission of the Dissertation.

Eligibility for Admissions

Minimum Qualifications for admission to M.A in Italian Studies

Bachelor's Degree in Italian / Bachelor's Degree in any subject with Advanced Diploma in Italian or at least B2 level according to the Common European Framework.

Admissions are done in two modes – Merit and Entrance. 50% of the seats are to be filled through Merit and 50% through Entrance Test Mode. Merit mode is for students who have completed their BA Honours in Italian from Delhi University. Vacant seats, if any, will be transferred to the Entrance Mode of Admission. 50% of the seats will be filled up on the basis of Entrance Exam and Interview.

Students appearing for the Entrance Exam will be tested on language skills and basic knowledge of the literature, history and culture of France and Francophone countries. Model question papers are available on the website.

Assessment of Students' Performance and Scheme of Examinations
